Outing and Lunch for Students

A fun outing to start the conference

Students part of the IEEE Oceans 2022 conference, broke bread with each other, and then ventured to the outskirts of Chennai. The outing had students from IIT Madras, Sairam Engineering College, NIOT, and also Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Petroleum Technology. The event provided an opportunity to socialise before the intense conference.

There were a total of 27 people, which apart from students, also had a faculty from IIT Madras, and a scientist from NIOT. While the students awaited the formal meeting, they also appreciated the opportunity to hang their hair down, and chill. The aquarium had many coastal fish, ornamental varieties, and also a few deep water species like sharks. The underwater tunnel, deep blue in colour had interesting fish, and also provided an opportunity to take interesting photos. After teatime at the aquarium, the students decided to visit a local beach in Palavakam, and watch the sunset. Although the group would have loved to stay for longer at the beach, they also did not want to miss the dinner scheduled later in the evening. After these locations, the group made a quick dash to the city for the ice-breaker reception. Aquarium, and then a beach, on the East Coast Road, together seemed an appropriate start to a marine-themed conference called IEEE Oceans.
